DISCLOSURE AND CONSENT TO JOINT REPRESENTATION

In connection with your possible engagement of me to prepare your estate plans and associated documents, I prefer to deal with any potential ethical issues at the outset and avoid all possibility of any misunderstanding by providing you this disclosure.

I am obligated to refuse to represent either of you if you have conflicting interests. Although I am not aware of any conflict that exists from my agreeing to represent you, or of any facts that could create a conflict, the following are issues or facts you should consider carefully before your hire any attorney to represent you jointly.

1. A conflict may arise if any decision either of you makes results in an adverse or inconsistent outcome for the other.
2. A conflict may arise also if you have divergent property rights or interests or cannot agree on how you would like your jointly owned property to be distributed.
3. Although we will keep the information that you each provide strictly confidential with respect to the outside world, I am not permitted to keep information received from one of you secret from the other.
4. You should individually, independently, and truthfully provide answers to any questions that I may have for you. In this way, should any conflict exist, it will be revealed at the earliest opportunity.
5. I need to ask that you inform me immediately if you become aware of any conflict which affects my representation.

Bernard (Bud) Glavy, Attorney at Law

By signing below, I acknowledge and understand:

the confidentiality situation described above, the potential for conflicts that exists, and that, if I have any questions or concerns, I am free and encouraged to consult independently with another attorney;

in the unlikely event that a conflict exists or develops so that you are unable to represent us jointly, you will withdraw from further representation, and I will need to engage separate legal counsel; and in the event you withdraw for the reason described above, payment will be due from each of us, jointly and severally, for all previously billed and unpaid, and unbilled fees and expenses incurred up to that point.

I consent to joint representation if, in fact, we decide to retain you to prepare our estate plans and associated documents.
